CABOT—Early RUBEL—Midseason to late
RANCOCAS—Midseason JERSEY—Late

(Two varieties needed for proper cross pollination.)

Cultivated Blueberries grow in large clusters, plump, tender, and practically seedless with the delightful tang of the wild fruit. In addition to bearing large crops, it is a nice bush to add attraction to a lawn or garden. Blueberries require an acid soil which contains an abundance of peat moss or other partly decayed vegetable matter. If your soil is deficient in this material, a heavy application of peat, rotted sawdust, or other material should be made and worked into the top 6 inches of soil.

Plant 3 to 4 ft. apart in rows 6-8 ft. apart. Will produce satisfactorily for 50 years or more.

GIANT BOYSENBERRIES . . . Hardy, Heavy Bearing, Sweet

(Illustrated on Page 25 of our Catalog)

The amazing new berry, a cross of the Blackberry, Raspberry, and Loganberry, and is far more vigorous than any of its parents. It is immense in size and when you taste it, you will agree that in flavor it stands supreme. The fruit when fully ripened will literally melt in your mouth. A distinctly different, very pleasant flavor, no core and very few seeds, make it a most delicious berry for eating fresh, for pies and for canning. If you want a real treat, here it is. It makes considerable horizontal growth as compared to its height. For easy picking, plants should be trained on a fence or wires. Plants are strong, vigorous, and quite hardy. However, we advise covering with straw or hay in Winter in cold climates to avoid winter injury.
